

IntegrityCounts Terms of Service

IntegrityCounts provides Certified Ethics Reporting Systems for our clients to assist them in providing their employees, third parties, and customers, with a confidential method to report on important information and ethical misconduct.

IntegrityCounts is committed to protecting your identity and privacy. We won't release any information that would identify you, unless you want us to. Please ensure to protect your identity by not disclosing any personal details. If you wish to share your name and contact information, you can do that in the report, and we will share it with the appropriate Investigation Team representative.

IntegrityCounts and our clients consider the information that you submit using this reporting system to be very important and we respect your choice.
